Peron Told to Quit Politics or Leave Spain

By EMILIO MOYA

MADRID (AP) — Argentine ex-President Juan Peron's ill-fated move early this month to return home brought an ultimatum today from the Spanish government: give up politics or leave Spain within a month.

The government also expelled all of Peron's political collaborators for helping engineer the abortive try to return to South America.

Manuel Fraga, minister of information and tourism, said the ultimatum would be handed to Peron Sunday in a letter. He did not make its full contents public.

It was understood that Peron would be expected to answer in writing immediately.

Sources close to the former strongman expected he would abide by the ultimatum. Peron had been under pressure from his Argentine followers to return this year and some sources said Peron now could point out that he had tried and resume his comfortable life in exile.

Peron, 69, flew to Rio de Janeiro on Dec. 2. But Brazilian authorities, who said they were acting at the request of Argentina, ordered the airline to return Peron to Madrid.

Sources in Madrid said the Spanish government was embarrassed by the flight.

"We do not want to act as Peron's wardens any more," said Fraga.

Peron's reaction was not available. He was at a hotel at Torremolinos in southern Spain, where he has been under police guard since his return from Rio. He was granted residence in Spain in 1960 on the understanding that he would not publicly involve himself in politics.

Peron, who ruled Argentina from 1946 to 1955, had promised his followers he would return before the end of this year. He has de facto support in Argentina's General Confederation of Labor.

Some observers felt Peron knew from the start his attempt to reach Argentina would fail and on his return he would receive an order like today's. They said this would supply him with a face-saving way to quit.

Sentences for Espionage Soon

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — John W. Butenko and Igor A. Ivanov are scheduled to be sentenced Dec. 18 for conspiring to commit espionage.

The charge, one of three on which Butenko was convicted Dec. 2, carries a maximum penalty of death.

U.S. Dist. Judge Anthony J. Augelli, who presided at the pair's trial, announced the sentencing date Wednesday.

Butenko, 31, an American engineer, and Ivanov, 34, a Russian chauffeur, were convicted of conspiring to relay U.S. Air Force secrets to the Soviet Union.

Both also were convicted of conspiring to violate the law requiring registration of foreign agents. On a third count against Butenko, he was found guilty of acting as an unregistered agent for Russia. These charges carry maximum sentences of five and 10 years imprisonment, respectively.

Some Recall Crucial Battle of Bastogne

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Well, maybe 20 years is a long time to remember a battle; the blood, the guts and the glory.

It is even longer to remember the heroes, maybe.

But the heroes remember each other, the guy who was there when the chips were down.

So here they were, a few at least.

They had once worn the old wool O.D.-olive drab — and had hung a sign in Belgium's hub town of Bastogne reading: "Bastion of the Battling Bastards."

When they were surrounded by Germans and called upon to surrender, their commanding officer, then Brig. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, penned a note which has become a part of U.S. history. He wrote:

"To the German Commander: 'Nuts!'"

"— The American Commander."

They — maybe 20 or 25 middle-aged men — were attending a "special program commemorating the 20th anniversary of the Ardennes campaign: Battle of the Bulge, December 1944, sponsored by the George Washington Chapter, Association of the United States Army."

McAuliffe was present Thursday night with his handful of veterans, amid some 700 soldiers, mostly officers from the Pentagon. The Belgium ambassador, Louis cheyven, had come down from New York to express his nation's gratitude.

He said simply: "They were heroes, true heroes. We shall never — and I mean never — forget it."

Afterwards the one-time members of the 101st Airborne and a few members of Combat Command B, 10th Armored Division, sat through an Army-produced film, supposedly made during the battle at Bastogne.

Infantry appeared on the skyline with the snow as a backdrop to fire against the enemy.

Robert P. O'Connell, now an insurance salesman in Washington who enlisted at the age of 19 in Boston, sniffed audibly.

"There was cold and snow," he said, "but that picture must have been made with rear echelon troops. I can tell you this: Nobody, but nobody, stood up on the front lines at Bastogne."

While the meeting continued, it was hard to remember that precisely 20 years ago German tanks and troops were moving over straw matted roads toward the "quiet" area in the Ardennes. The straw was to muffle sound.

The attack came across a winding 104-mile front on Dec. 16. It was a battle as big as that at Stalingrad with over a million men involved eventually. It was made under cover of fog, a fog that was not to lift for good until Dec. 24.

At Bastogne, half frozen men, short on rations and ammunition, fought the pride of the German army to a standstill. As long as Bastogne held out and could be resupplied, it was a threat to German communications.

And it did hold out, while the whole nation settling down for its Christmas holiday, cheered that scornful rejection of the German ultimatum: "Nuts!"

The cheers have grown fewer and a whole generation has grown up to which Bastogne is a history lesson.

Buddhists Plan Suicides to Topple Premier

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese Buddhist leaders embarked today on a weekend of fasting and praying and threatened a renewal of suicides in their drive to topple the harassed government of Premier Tran Van Huong.

Saigon Buddhist headquarters told of a multi-pronged anti-government campaign on the heels of the Huong regime's announcement that more United States aid would be pouring in to help South Viet Nam's armed forces and economy in the anti-Communist war.

These developments marked the end of two weeks of relative calm in the capital and the beginning of the Buddhist campaign.

1. Buddhist Monk Thich Tinh Khiet, nominal over-all leader of the Buddhists, and several ranking aides said they would conduct a 48-hour hunger strike.

2. Buddhist headquarters opened for a continuous round.

Faubus Holds ALC Off of Police Issue

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The

Legislative Council, at the urging of Gov. Orval E. Faubus, declined today to come to grips with the problem of State Police financing.

The council approved the Sea Police budget at $2,375,300, the same amount the agency got two years ago, and added a footnote that additional money would be provided during the regular legislative session.

Faubus notified the council in a letter that it had become apparent that the State Police problem was not going to be solved until the regular session of the legislature in January.

The council then discussed whether it should approve the budget at the $3,032,370 figure recommended originally by the governor for the coming biennium, or to simply hold the line.

It decided that holding the line was best.

The State Police Department has asked for $3.5 million a year and Faubus said in his letter to the council that he now feels his own recommendation is too low and that he will raise it before final consideration of the budget.

The council today cut $226,000 from the Children's Colony budget, approving an allocation of $1,445,000 for 1955-56 and $1,545,000 for 1966-67.

It also approved the governor's recommendation for county and municipal aid but indicated that the legislature in regular session will consider increasing these amounts.

Faubus recommended $15.2 million for the counties, the same as two years ago, and $11,290,000 for the cities, a $1,125,000 increase, but all of the increase was allocated from highway revenues.

The governor did not recommend any increase in general fund money for either the cities or the counties.

The council allocated $275,000 a year for construction and operation of an educational television station. This was a drastic reduction from the Educational Television Commission's request for $533,100 a year, but the council decided to hold the budget to the amount of money already in the educational television fund.

The fund draws money from surplus revenues and there are not likely to be any revenue surpluses in the coming biennium.

The council approved annual budgets of $140,000 for livestock show premiums, $15,000 for the state horse show, and $25,000 for the Arkansas Children's Hospital.

It increased the budget of the Publicity Division of the Publicity and Parks Commission to $5,000 for an instructional film on the legislature.

The Publicity Division got $316,000 a year and the Parks Division $372,000.

The Game and Fish Commission's $3.7 million annual budget was approved without comment.

Then the council adjourned until 10:30 a.m. next Thursday.

Christmas in the 2 New But Distant States Is Celebrated About Same as the Mainland

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Star Feature Writer

A currently popular song asks how you'd like to spend Christmas on Christmas Island. We didn't know anyone who was going to Christmas Island, but Mrs. Alma Atkins Drew will be joining her husband, Sgt. Lloyd Drew, in Hawaii one week from today, and the Louis Sutton, Jr. family is already representing Hope well in the 50th state.

How is Christmas celebrated in what was once a foreign land is now very much a part of these United States? Much like the American cities everywhere, Honolulu and other island metropolises are gaily decorated in Christmas tinsel and lights, and toys and gifts are on sale in all the stores.

Christmas carols are sung and records by such mainland personalities as Bing Crosby sell almost as well as those of the late Alfred Apaka, whose death at 40 from a heart attack left the islands in mourning some few months ago. Perhaps the Christmas carols still receive our western interpretation because of the large number of military personnel and their families who are there, one-seventh of the population of 700,000. Or, it could be because it was the missionaries to the islands who first introduced music to these people.

This brings us to the religious aspect of Christmas—its true meaning. Does a land with so much oriental influence and Buddhist background observe this Christian holiday in a religious way? Yes. There is no doubt about it.

Christianity in the islands that form our 50th state go back to the founding of Kawaiahaeo, the first acknowledged place of Christian worship in Honolulu, on April 24, 1820. The work that began there has been assessed by historians as "the most significant influence in Hawaii's whole development."

In a church bulletin from this house of worship that is called the Westminister Abbey of Hawaii, its origin is described as "something like Christmas in that Kawaiahaeo and Christmas have been small beginnings out of which greater things have come, kindling light to many."

The text for that first service in April 1820 was "Fear not, behold I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people, for unto you is born this day a saviour which is Christ the Lord." As the Rev. Thomas Nickerson explained to his congregation 139 years later when word had come that Congress had granted statehood to Hawaii, "Although our grandfathers did not realize it fully then, the hopes and fears of all the years through the next century and more were to be met in the meaning and power of those words, for, from that beginning, a new Hawaii was born."

Christmas is coming to Hawaii and the whole world in less than two weeks. While it will seem strange to many from the mainland to sing Christmas carols in a tropical setting or to even on the mountain tops—the same feeling of inner joy will still prevail.

On the mainland we say Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, but in Hawaii it's Mele Kalikimaka and Me Ka Houli Makahiki Hou. The meaning is the same, regardless of accent.

Farm Workers Covered by S. Security

Today, most farm workers are covered by social security, Otis A. Blackwood, social security district manager in Texarkana, emphasized today that farm workers build credit for retirement disability, and survivors benefits during their working years in the same way that city workers build their credits under social security.

Any farm employee is covered under the social security law if his employer pays him $150 or more in cash wages during a year or if he works for a farm employer on 20 or more days a year for cash pay figured on a time basis. Furthermore, according to Mr. Blackwood, these cash wages do not have to be earned during one continuous period. They may be earned any time during the year.

In January of each year the employer must file a tax return with the District Director of Internal Revenue showing all the information about his employees, so that each worker may receive credit for his earnings for the year.

The farm employer makes the report on Form 943, which may be obtained from the Internal Revenue Service. When this tax return is filed, the social security tax must be paid on each worker's earnings — 3% percent by the employer and 3% percent which has been withheld from the employee's wages over the year.

Two witnesses testified that they had seen the wrench in Williams' possession.

Earlier, witnesses testified that Mrs. Degges was ironing clothes about the time her house was invaded.

Dr. Lawrence Edwards of Crossett testified Thursday that he had examined a healed burn on Williams' abdomen. The burn measured eight inches in length and was four and one-half inches wide at the base.

"I estimated the burn was caused by a non-flammable object," Edwards said.

Later he was shown an iron which measured eight inches in length, four and one half inches wide at the base.

Williams has testified that the burn came from the muffler of a power saw he had used.

Would Take Roads Away From Judges

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — A proposal will be introduced in the 1965 legislature to take the county road system out of the hands of county judges and put it under the state Highway Department.

Rep. Hayes C. McClerkin of Miller County said Thursday he would introduce a proposed constitutional amendment to that effect.

"It will allow all county judges to become purely administrative officials wherein they can devote more time to the establishment of health, welfare and anti-poverty programs within the county," McClerkin said.

"This legislation will probably receive criticism from the county judges, inasmuch as it will take the road program out of their hands," McClerkin said.

"This will be relieving the county judges of their main problem, or at least the main complaint that they generally express on all occasions."

"This is a radical change," he said, "but in my opinion a necessary one."

McClerkin wrote Gov. Orval E. Faubus the details of his plan. Copies also went to members of the Highway Commission.

McClerkin said his amendment would abolish the 3-mill county road tax and institute a 6-mill statewide road tax that would not have to be approved in every general election. The cities' share of the road tax would be increased to three mills.

"The nature of this amendment is to develop the farm-to-market road system within the state of Arkansas as well as to lighten the financial responsibility of the state Highway Department," McClerkin said.

The amendment would allow the Highway Department flexibility with the more than $14 million in tax funds now turned back to the counties.

He said the only problem would be whether the Highway Department could manage the problem.

"Everyone desires the state Highway Department to maintain all the roads in the state," McClerkin said. "Even though there is a possible ad valorem tax increase involved, there will be a small increase in taxes paid and I am sure the people understand that a progressive road system would make a tax increase worthwhile."

McClerkin said the tax increase would be about $9 a year on a $10,000 assessment.

State Rests in Hamburg Murder Case

HAMBURG, Ark. (AP) — The

state rested its case Thursday in the first-degree murder trial of James Williams, 33, a Negro charged in the death of Mrs. Thomas Degges, 25, a white housewife.

The woman's body was found on an old logging road near here last September. She had been raped and beaten to death, authorities said. Her four-year-old son said a Negro man abducted her from her house here.

The case may go to the jury today. Defense attorney Thomas Cashion said he planned to put only three or four witnesses on the stand.

The state's case Thursday centered on the whereabouts of Williams at the assumed time of the woman's death. It also concentrated on an S-shaped wrench found near the woman's body and believed to have been the murder weapon, and on a burn on the defendant's abdomen.

Two witnesses testified that they had seen the wrench in Williams' possession.

Earlier, witnesses testified that Mrs. Degges was ironing clothes about the time her house was invaded.

Dr. Lawrence Edwards of Crossett testified Thursday that he had examined a healed burn on Williams' abdomen. The burn measured eight inches in length and was four and one-half inches wide at the base.

"I estimated the burn was caused by a non-flammable object," Edwards said.

Later he was shown an iron which measured eight inches in length, four and one half inches wide at the base.

Williams has testified that the burn came from the muffler of a power saw he had used.

Space Rocket Test Proves Successful

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Atlas-Centaur space rocket registered a much-needed test flight success today, hurling its two-ton Centaur second stage and metal model of a moonship into a precise orbit around the earth.

The orbit, a circular path 103 miles high, is the course the Centaur stage must achieve on future unmanned moon and planetary launchings.

The success was the second in four test flights for the Atlas-Centaur. It heralded a possible end to problems which have harassed the rocket and have put it about three years behind schedule. Continued success might enable it to plant a Project Surveyor spacecraft on the moon late next year.

Packed in the Centaur's nose today was a 2,100-pound chunk of metal with the same weight and center of mass as the Surveyor. It was rigged with instruments to measure vibrations and temperature, but was not to separate from the Centaur stage.

The 112-foot tall booster roared away from Cape Kennedy at 9:25 a.m. EST on the power generated by the first stage Atlas. The Centaur upper stage, burning high-energy liquid hydrogen, fired for 5 1/2 minutes and drilled itself into the planned orbit.

This was the third successful space launching at Cape Kennedy in four days.

On Tuesday a space glider was launched on a suborbital flight to test techniques for future spaceships designed to maneuver and land like conventional aircraft.

Thursday the Air Force launched a Titan 3A military space rocket on a successful orbital flight.

The only black mark during the week was an attempt Wednesday to launch an unmanned model of the Project Gemini man-in-space capsule. The launching was frustrated at the last second because of trouble which forced shutdown of the engines after they had ignited.

The Atlas-Centaur accuracy today was made possible by flawless performance of an inertial guidance system which was steering the rocket for the first time. On previous shots, the guidance package was carried as a passenger and its potential performance monitored while a separate control system directed the course.

Only 38 Turn Out for Citizens Meet

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Thirty-eight persons turned out Thursday night for the reorganization of the Texarkana Citizens Council, a segregationist group.

John Golden of Texarkana, who introduced one of the speakers, said 400 invitations had been sent.

Richard D. Morpheus of Atlanta, public relations director of the Citizens Councils of America, said the results of the presidential election would have been different if the Republican leaders had hit hard on the race issue.

"I'm not saying Goldwater would have won," Morpheus said, "but he would have carried more states."

The Texarkana council went on an inactive basis several years ago.

Censorship Irks U of A Professor

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A

University of Arkansas professor refused to deliver Thursday night a scheduled physics theory lecture because he opposes censorship.

Otto H. Zinke, associate professor of physics, was to have spoken about "The Information Theory in Physics" to the University Philosophy Club.

The meetings of the club should be open to the entire student body, he said.

Such a meeting requires approval of the university's Facilities Use Committee.

The Arkansas Traveler, the student newspaper at the university, quoted Zinke as saying, "I refuse to have my name or the subject of my lecture submitted to the Facilities Use Committee because of my strong feeling that censorship has no place in our society."

"I refuse to lecture before a university club in a meeting which is not open to all students," Zinke said, according to the student paper.

Non-public meetings, or those which are not open to "the total university family" do not require approval of the facilities committee.

The censorship issue sprang up last month when the university would not let its facilities be used for a speech by Peter Vassilev, a cultural affairs minister in the Bulgarian government, a Communist nation.

Rev. James E. Loudermilk let Vassilev speak in the Methodist Center on the university campus. Gov. Orval E. Faubus and Methodist Bishop Paul V. Gallaway were critical of Loudermilk's action.

Madison and Conway Lead in Absentees

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A study of official election returns in the secretary of state's office has revealed that Madison and Conway counties polled the highest percentage of absentee ballots in the Nov. 3 general election.

Almost 10.9 per cent of the votes cast in Madison County and slightly more than 10.7 per cent in Conway County were absentee, compared to a state average of 5.4 per cent.

Generally the absentee voters differed with the rest of the electorate on the election issues.

Absentee voters overwhelmingly approved passage of Amendment 55, which would have legalized casino gambling in Garland County. The proposition was defeated soundly.

The absentees also approved five of six other amendments on the ballot but only two of the seven amendments offered were passed. They were Amendment 57, which would permit the levying of taxes to establish junior colleges and Amendment 54, which establishes a permanent voter registration system.

Both Madison and Conway County absentee voters gave lopsided margins to Gov. Orval E. Faubus over his Republican opponent, Winthrop Rockefeller. Faubus fared only slightly better in absentee votes than he did in the total vote.

The governor polled 58.6 per cent of the absentee votes while getting 56.9 per cent of the total vote.

The controversial gambling amendment got 54.8 per cent of the absentee vote while polling only 39.6 per cent of the total vote.

The gubernatorial election was the last of a series of elections in which the absentee vote has been a key witness in the stormy Senate probe.

McNamara Will Reveal Plan for Reserves

By ELTON C. FAY

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announces today his plan to carve up the Army Reserve and put the leftover pieces in the National Guard.

But even before the Pentagon boss' scheduled late morning news conference, protests were heard. For although the purpose of McNamara's session with the press was not disclosed officially, there was no doubt the result would be the effective end of the 300,000-man Organized Army Reserve.

Those units which haven't passed McNamara's muster for efficiency, readiness and effectiveness would disappear from the rolls. About half the Army reservists would be shifted to the National Guard, expanding its strength from 400,000 to about 550,000 and making it the sole ready backup for the regular Army's 16 divisions.

The other 150,000 reservists would be put in a general military manpower pool of available reservists who could be called up, individually and in an emergency, to bring units up to full strength.

This second and more drastic streamlining of the Reserve in two years is a sore spot with the Reserve Officers Association (ROA). The association wired President Johnson Friday to urge a full investigation and public hearings on the proposal. The plan has implications which "threaten real national danger," the ROA said.

In Little Rock, Ark., Maj. Gen. Maupin Cummings, commander of the 8,000-man 39th National Guard Division, said: "We've been reorganized so often in the last few years that it has hurt morale, hurt recruiting. Our personnel don't know what to think."

Capitol Hill isn't apt to take the action lightly, either. A roar of protest greeted the cudgel of two years ago. Many members of Congress, habitually springing to the defense of the Reserve. And about 82 of them hold Reserve commissions, several as major generals and brigadier generals.

Nuns Change Things in Factory Work

By PHIL BROWN
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Some habits had to be changed — in more ways than one — when two Michigan nuns went to work in a factory.
For instance: "The first day we were there something went wrong on a job, and one of the men let loose with a loud and candid comment. You could almost hear an elbow hitting his ribs," said Sister Jean Lawrence of East Lansing.
She and Sister Janina of Detroit also told, in an interview Wednesday, how they had to modify the large sleeves on the habits they wore and take some extra material out of the skirts for safety and convenience.
"When we arrived at the plant to start work, it was just like dropping a bomb," Sister Jean Lawrence recalled.

All members are asked to bring a $1 gift for exchange.

Wednesday, December 16
The Fidelas Sunday School Class will have their Christmas party, Wednesday, December 16 at 7:30 in the home of Mrs. Forest Hair.
All associate members are urged to attend. An exchange of gifts not to exceed $1 will be given.

Rocky Mound H D Club Meets
The C. L. Roberts home on the Proving Ground road was the setting for the Rocky Mound Home Demonstration Club Christmas party.
The meeting was opened by singing Christmas carols led by Mrs. Clifford Messer with Mrs. John Barham at the piano. The devotion was given by the hostess using Matthew 2: 1-11 as her theme. She also read a Christmas poem.
Gifts were distributed from a beautiful silver tree decorated with colorful balls to twelve members. Mrs. J. H. Pickard received the door prize. Games were played with prizes given to several members.
Delicious refreshments were served to each member. The January meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Norman Taylor.

Deborah S S Class Meets
The Deborah Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church, held its annual Christmas dinner meeting Tuesday evening, December 8th, at the home of Mrs. Clyde Osburn, with Mrs. Harry Shiver, Mrs. Miles Laha, Mrs. Clyde Zinn, Mrs. W. W. Compton, and Mrs. W. H. Gunter as co-hostesses.
The serving table was covered with a beautiful red Christmas tablecloth, and the dining tables were decorated with holly and candles. Mrs. Troy Shelton gave the invocation, and a traditional dinner was enjoyed by 16 members and one guest.
A program and social hour followed the dinner, and Mrs. Mabel Bramlett gave a very beautiful Christmas Story. Gifts were exchanged from a silver Christmas tree, decorated with colorful balls.

Coming and Going
The Frank Kings went to Ouachita Baptist College Tuesday night for the Christmas concert of the College Choir. Dora Ann King and Larry Williams, both of Hope, are members of the Choir. Dora Ann has recently returned from a 5-day tour of North Western Arkansas with the Ouachita Singers. She was the accompanist for the group.
A2c Kendall Yocom has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Ray Yocom the past few weeks, and will leave Monday for an assignment in Germany.

ton, Ohio, this summer was the idea of Mother Genevieve, superior at the Dominican motherhouse in Adrian.
The company makes colored glass windows. Mother Genevieve asked company owner Rudy Nobis if she could send two nuns to work as apprentices.
"Sure, any time," Nobis laughed.
"They had not really expected us," said Sister Jean Lawrence. "But they put us to work."
The two nuns, both school teachers, began putting together four windows, two 18-by-8-foot and two 15-by-5-foot, for the new Maria Hall for sick and aged nuns at Adrian.
"The men were a little upset by having women invade their private domain, especially nuns," Sister Jean Lawrence said. "But, after a while, they seemed to get used to us. When ever one of them would have a minor injury, we usually got the job of patching it up, since we were the only women in the shop."
The two were chosen because of their art studies at Sienna Heights College at Adrian toward a master's degree. The factory work earned them degree credits.
Sister Janina said the nuns did all their own work, "except they showed us what to do once and lifted the windows for us."
She estimated the nuns fitted some 1,900 small pieces of red, yellow, blue, green and other colored glass to fit the pattern for the window, designed by Sister Joannes, art director of Sienna Heights Studio Angelica.
When they left the factory, their fellow workers gave them a going away gift of a box of candy.

Pa Kettle Succumbs to Injuries

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Percy Kilbride, 76, the Pa Kettle of the movies, died early today at Chase Sanitarium.
He was injured in an auto accident Sept. 21 and underwent brain surgery at Good Samaritan Hospital in Hollywood Nov. 11.
Dr. Barkley Noble said Kilbride died at 12:45 a.m. of hardening of the arteries in the brain and terminal pneumonia. The doctor said he notified Kilbride's sister, Mrs. John L. Crowley of Los Angeles Thursday that her brother was failing fast.
Fame came in his later years to the hawk-nosed comedian with the song-song voice.
He appeared in 800 stage roles, then made his movie debut in 1942. His roles were minor until he and Marjorie Main played a farm couple in "The Egg and I" in 1947.
The characters were lifted from the film and became the basis of the "Ma and Pa Kettle" series. They were immensely popular at the box office, and Kilbride and Miss Main were boosted from character roles to starring parts.
Kilbride was 61 when the series began. The Kettle films made a fortune for the studio, but Kilbride never struck it rich. Work was brief, taxes took too much, and he was type-cast as the back-country farmer.
He retired at 65, lived largely on Social Security, and spent much time walking Hollywood Boulevard. A bachelor, he lived alone in a modest apartment.
On Sept. 17 he and an actor friend, Frank Belmont, 73, were hit by a car as they were crossing a Hollywood intersection. Belmont was killed. At first it was thought Kilbride escaped with minor head injuries. But Nov. 11 he was taken to Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles for brain surgery. Later he was transferred to the sanitarium for recuperation.

Blackie Ellis sat alone at the bar with a drink in front of him. The bartender was busy polishing glasses. I went over and sat down next to him.
"How'd it go?"
"He checked out of the hotel sometime this morning."
His eyebrows went up. "He must be nervous if he's hotel hopping. Any leads?"
"He didn't take a cab from the backstand out front. He's cute."
"Sounds like it. Nervous, too."
"That's because he's on the big make. He's got maybe another 36 hours here and then he'd better be off."
"You and the cops?"
I shook my head. "He's cashed two checks that I know of. Big ones. One he had Tip Wright cash with Jackie's uncle. The other one was cashed with a bookie."
"Rubber?"
"Stolen corporation checks. The bank will refuse to honor them. The news will be back by day after tomorrow. So Emery has to be off, and Tip Wright will be sitting in the hot seat."
He shook his head. "The rackets are getting filled up with a lot of punks. Where did this guy come from?"
"Left field," I said. "He comes from a wealthy family back in New York, but I guess he wanted to make his own money. And he's done about everything but print it himself."
He looked at me and grinned. "That's one of the reasons I got out of the rackets. The amateurs are ruining it. You said he cashed two corporation checks. Were they Monig Research and Charade Investments?"
"How did you know?"
He sighed. "About 30 minutes ago I had a phone call. A book of checks from each of those companies is on the market. Four dollars a check. That's a 20 per cent discount."
"Somebody was trying to sell them to you?"
"No. I was just being warned not to cash any of them unless I know the guy who offers it. But you must be right about his getting ready to take a powder."

"I'll level with you, Blackie. I want this guy badly. I don't care how I get him."
"Don't make a mistake," he said. "I'm no stoolie."
"I wasn't asking for anything, I said. I was just putting my cards on the table."
"I'll see what I can do." He glanced at the clock. "Well, the day is about to start. What are you going to do tonight?"
"I have to wait. So I was thinking of taking Jackie to dinner while I waited. It might make her feel better after last night."
"You probably won't get any information," he said. "If Tip cashed a check with her uncle, he's going to stay away. And so will the other guy."
I went over to the phone booth and dialed her number. She answered.
"Jackie," I said, "this is Blake Morgan."
"Oh, hello," she said. I didn't expect you to call me. How did you get my number?"
"Blackie Ellis gave it to me. Is it all right?"
"Of course it is. If Blackie gave it to you that means he likes you. I'm so glad. How are you, Blake?"
"More or less all right. You told me that your uncle lets you off whenever you like, right?"
"Sure. Why?"
"Throw on something and meet me at Blackie's right away. I'm already here." There was a pause. "I don't

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "For three and a half years, I enjoyed being a girl," says Ann Miller. Now she's learning to be a dancer all over again.
The results can be seen Saturday on ABC's "Hollywood Palace," and preview reports indicate Ann still has that great tapping style that made her a leading figure in movie musicals for 20 years.
"Boy, I worked hard enough!" she exclaimed. "For a month and a half I practiced with David Lichine and his wife, two Russian ballet experts who made me stretch my muscles and get back in shape. Then I

Johnson Plays It Cool and Keeps Silent

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson can afford to stay mum for a while, and he is. Ever since he won the election the White House has been practically sound-proof, and this will probably go on into January.
This is enough to irritate anyone who can't get used to the great stillness around here. It is unusual, but Johnson seems to be playing it cool.
True, he has talked to businessmen about prosperity and how he wants to get along with them; he issued a statement on Viet Nam; and he had a two-day talk with British Prime Minister Wilson.
But he didn't say anything unexpected in his business talk besides urging bankers to keep their interest rate down. And the statement on Viet Nam was so vague no one could tell what he had in mind.
As for Wilson, the two men announced they had discussed a number of things and both were anxious to find solutions. But they didn't offer any.
Otherwise, the five weeks since election have been very quiet, with Johnson spending most of his time on his Texas ranch, having his aides and others fly down to see him.
This is a switch from the way Johnson skipped around through most of 1963, before and during the campaign, making speeches and holding news conferences almost on the run.
He was always saying something, or doing something, and then, when he got such overwhelming approval in the election, it's no wonder if he felt silence would be appropriate for a time and for a change.
Yet the very quietude created had three weeks of rehearsals with Nick Castle — all for one number.
"I lost 13 pounds doing it. But I also found a whole new career, and I'm as giddy as a starlet, starting in all over again."
Ann never had much chance to be a girl. Troubled with rickets as a child, she studied dancing in her native Houston, Tex., to help straighten her legs. They grew — and grew, until by 12 Ann was her full height of 5 feet 5. She had been playing in vaudeville, then made her film debut in "New Faces of 1937."
"I was 13, but said I was 18," she recalled. "I was scared to death I'd be found out and fired. Ginger Rogers was the only one at RKO who knew my secret, and she didn't tell."
Ann danced through RKO films, later switched to MGM as replacement for Cyd Charisse. Ann stayed almost 14 years.
After a few television appearances, she quit the dancing game.
She's full of plans now to do shows, play Las Vegas, New York, London, Miami and Australia. Still a single girl, she hasn't given up hope of another marriage.

"DEAR ABBY"

DON'T REGRET IT!
By Abigail Van Buren
Dear Abby: I am a respectable woman, 48 years of age. At a drop-in type cocktail party I met a very personable looking gentleman. He said he was also unmarried, and by his own jolly admission was "pushing 60."
We had a few laughs, danced a while and then he invited me to his apartment. I was taken back and refused. Was I being Mid-Victorian? He didn't say what he had in mind. If he'd even said he wanted to show me his etchings or a collection of something, I might have reacted differently. When he left, he didn't ask for my telephone number. At my age prospects are not too plentiful. Now I am sorry I didn't go. I've never gone to a man's apartment and didn't want him to think I was "that type." Was I foolish?
SORRY NOW
Dear Sorry: I doubt if the man had any etchings, a stamp collection, medals from World War II, or other things women are invited to men's apartments to see, but seldom do. A man who, by his own "jolly admission," is pushing 60 probably figures he doesn't have much time to waste. You used good judgment. If he's anything special, you'll see him again. If he was only on the prowl for instant romance—who needs him?
Dear Abby: I have gotten up every morning of my life for the past 50 years and started fires in the coal and wood stove while my husband stayed in bed and slept. I also took care of the children without any help from him. I even carried the wood and water myself. Don't you think it is time he got up and waited on me for a change? Or am I supposed to go on like this?
a mystery, a wondering: What's he up to? Of all people, and unintentionally, it was Sen. Barry Goldwater who helped create this condition.
Goldwater spent so much campaign time defending himself, particularly against the charge of being trigger-happy, that he did very little about saying exactly what he'd do if elected.
This was wonderful for Johnson. Since the polls already had him away out in front and Goldwater wasn't offering specific programs, Johnson didn't have to try to outbid with programs of his own.
This left him free to move and maneuver as he thought best at the time, picking and choosing among a lot of programs he might otherwise have had to pin himself to in the campaign.
In the meantime, being Johnson, the President has been busy behind the walls of the ranch-house and the White House preparing for next year when Congress comes back.
So, for all of these reasons, he probably will keep on not saying much until next month.
This seems simple but what isn't simple is how he is going to make good on just about the biggest promise he made — and this was long before the campaign.
This was the promise of the "Great Society." It got a lot of attention when he mentioned it in speeches last April and May. He will have four years to spell it out. But almost certainly sooner than that he'll have to spell out what he has in mind about foreign policy, a field much less familiar to him than domestic politics and problems.
If he follows the technique he used when he ran the Senate back in the 1950s, he'll probably soft-pedal his utterances on foreign policy until he has his chessmen all lined up.

Services of Your Church. Pray, Work and Live for God.

THE "Circuit Riders" of yesterday were Prophets of The Long Trail. Those noblemen read their Bibles by candlelight and preached wherever men would assemble. Their little churches were very ordinary but a serious minded people attended them. After a week of hard labor from which they earned their living these men of God would drive many miles to break The Word of Life to a hungry people.

THESE men were God's men, first and last. They were committed to do His will...to bring His message to the careless, sinful and needy. They asked only for people who would listen. Their ministries were sincere. Their churches were sacred places which were used to mold men for God. Disbelief of the inspiration of the Scriptures, or the divine origin of Christianity were not tolerated. The unfaithful were "turned out."

THESE servants of God were imbued with such love that they counted no sacrifice too great. They carried books and Bibles and tracts for hungry minds. They brought comfort to lonely spirits; the Touch of God for the healing souls. Thank God then for the church and for these Prophets of The Long Trail.
